

Zoover's compliance with refined HOTREC principles

1. Editorial control

Zoover has a team of moderators. They verify every new review, photo and video. Our system also has some technical control functions.

2. Prevention of manipulation

2.1 As Zoover is an independent website without own clients we can not 100% ensure this. However from our experience since 2004 and 1.300.000 reviews this seems to be no problem.

2.2 Zoover is always asking date of stay.

2.3 Not yet implemented.

2.4 Zoover will implement this feature in Q3 2011.

2.5 Zoover complies to this principle.

3. Quality assurance

3.1 Zoover has a data & content team who are constantly checking and updating the database. We also offer the option to hotel-owners to send us updated information on their property.

3.2 Zoover is offering a not applicable box when filling in a review.

3.3 See 3.2

3.4 Zoover thinks it's using the right criteria at this moment.

3.5 This option is offered by Zoover and also obliged.

4. Anonymity

Every review should be reconfirmed by e-mail. Hotels can respond to reviews (see point 7)

5. Minimum number of reviews

5.1 We display all hotels which has at least 1 review.

5.2 As mentioned before we display all hotels. In our opinion today's consumer is capable enough to take his own conclusions.

6. Business relations

Zoover does not know how to implement this rule. We think today's consumer is well capable enough to find out commercial means.

7. Right of reply

Zoover is offering a login option for hotel owners where they can maintain the Hotel data (address, pictures & videos), check the reviews, etc. An rss-feed for every new (good or bad) review is part of this system. They also can respond to every review.

8. Legal certainty

Zoover removes fake, commercial or unfair reviews. We would like to mention that in some case it's the hotel owner who's trying to upload new (very positive) reviews. Zoover can block users, IP address, etc. Of course it's Zoover who will decide if a review should be deleted, not the hotel owner. Hotel owners also can get a warning sign on their Zooverpage if fraude by themselves is detected.

9. Up-to-date data

Zoover aims to calculate the average score on the last 24 month. Newest reviews will have more value than those from 24 months. However the review itself will be displayed at all times.

10. Official star classification

This can be done if local Members of Hotrec can provide Zoover with digital data from their hotels. A yearly match between the databases would be possible. Zoover is not using any star symbols for reviews.
